PRELIMINARY YEAR END BUDGET REPORT: DECEMBER, 2010

This report presents a 2010 preliminary year end update of Snohomish County financial operations. While the information contained in the report is substantially complete, the information is subject to possible adjustments during the County's financial year end closing.

General Overview

2010 saw the national and regional economies begin to stabilize after two and a half years of the Great Recession. While confidence in the economy is beginning to grow, County leaders continue to closely monitor the ongoing mortgage crisis and its impact on real estate sales and high unemployment levels. These areas of concern will take several years to resolve themselves. In 2010, Snohomish County continued to employ tight spending controls with the objective of preserving fund balances and structuring budgets for the future to assure ongoing financial stability.

General Fund

The General Fund has benefitted from strong County spending controls, a stabilizing economy and revenue stream and restructuring of existing debt in a low interest environment. This strategy significantly reduced 2010 scheduled debt service payments for the administration building and the jail which were constructed earlier in the decade.

Ratio of Fund Balance to Revenues 12/31/11	12.07%

YTD Revenue Preliminary year-end revenues are three percent above budgeted levels. This variance is driven by the following major positive variances:

1. Property Tax Collections ($818 thousand positive variance): These amounts are reported on a cash basis. In the fourth quarter of 2009, receipts slowed significantly. 2010 collections which have been fairly strong throughout the year picked up at year end reflecting the collection of prior year revenues.
2. Sale Tax Revenues ($1.2 million positive variance): Sales tax revenues strengthened in the fourth quarter reflecting a strengthening economy.
3. Property Tax Penalties ($3.1 million positive variance): The delinquent collection of delinquent property tax receipts results in these tax penalties. The amount collected in 2010 is almost 50% greater than the amount collected in any other calendar year.

4. Miscellaneous Revenues ($3.1 million positive variance): This revenue surplus is a result of reimbursement to the General Fund of prior year debt service contributions resulting from the restructure of County Jail and Administration Building bonds.

*General Fund
Expenditures*

The General Fund 2010 budget was under-expended by $5.7 million due to a combination of strong spending controls in most departments and a major bond restructure which occurred during 2010. Four major County programs sought General Fund authorization for year-end over-expenditures. The following amounts which were authorized in January of 2011 are detailed below:

1. The Sheriff's Corrections Bureau received an additional spending authorization of $1.65 million. These amounts primarily funded inmate medical and pharmaceutical services. $750 thousand of this amount was funded by increased program revenues. The remaining $900 thousand was funded by General Fund fund balance.
2. The Sheriff's budget received an additional spending authorization of $550 thousand. $115 thousand of this amount was funded by grant revenue. $192 thousand of this amount related to emergency communications assessments for portions of the County that were annexed into cities during 2010. The cities have agreed to carry those charges in 2011. The remaining over-expenditures included operational charges reflecting 2010 managed savings and annexation resource reductions.
3. The Office of Public Defense's budget received $150 thousand of additional public defender contract funding for legally required defendant representation.
4. The District Court was authorized to expend an additional $117 thousand. Most of this amount was required to pay bank fees associated with District Court fee revenue. District Court additional appropriations were fully funded by increased District Court traffic infraction fees.

5-Year Trend

Figure 3 includes a five-year projection for General Fund revenues, expenditures and fund balance. In general, the projection does not reflect specific strategic plans or trend changes occurring on a year-by-year basis. However, there are some specific exceptions to this approach as noted below.

The projection assumes:

- 1) Mental health sales tax supplantation decreases each year until the supplantation is eliminated in 2015 as mandated by State Code.
- 2) Adjustments for future year increases in State pension costs as projected by the Washington State actuary.
- 3) The projection assumes 1.0% of projected expenditures for under-expenditures. These levels are lower than historical levels.

Real Estate Excise Tax

Fourth quarter real estate excise tax receipts continued to come in slowly as a result of the housing market ongoing housing downturn. Receipts for the year are consistent with expectations expressed in the third quarter 2010 budget report. The County cannot expect a significant increase in real estate construction or sales in the next few years. Annual Real Estate Excise Tax Revenues and Budgets are shown below for the years 2007 through 2011.

Economic Outlook

In an economy that relies on consumer spending for 70 percent of the nation's gross domestic product, nothing really matters as much as what the 90 percent of U.S. workers with jobs decide to do with their money — spend it, squirrel it away, use it to pay down debt. Many analysts expect consumer spending to play a big role in driving economic recovery this year, especially after the best holiday retail shopping season since 2006.

The economy gained strength at the end of last year as Americans spent at the fastest pace in four years and U.S. companies sold more overseas. The growth is boosting hopes for a stronger 2011. But it remains too weak to ease high unemployment. The Commerce Department reported that growth rose by an annual rate of 3.2 percent in the October-December quarter. That's better than the 2.6 percent growth in the previous quarter. And it was the best quarterly showing since the start of last year.

The economy has now consistently picked up speed since hitting a rough patch in the spring of 2010. For all of last year, the economy grew 2.9 percent, the most since 2005. It was an improvement from 2009 when the economy suffered its worst decline in more than 60 years. All told, the economy produced $13.38 trillion worth of goods and services last year, a new record. It surpassed the pre-recession peak reached in the fourth quarter of 2007.

Still, the economy isn't growing fast enough to drive down unemployment, which was 9.4 percent in December. It takes about 3 percent growth just to create enough jobs to keep pace with the population increase. By some estimates, growth would have to be closer to 5 percent for a full year to drive down the unemployment rate by 1 percentage point.

Increased consumer spending was a key reason the economy grew more strongly. In the fourth quarter of 2010, Americans boosted their spending at a 4.4 percent annual pace, the most since 2006. They spent more on furnishings, appliances, cars and clothes. Economists are hopeful that consumers can power the economy as government stimulus fades and businesses spend less replenishing their stockpiles.

Employment

The unemployment rate rose in 20 states in December as employers in most states shed jobs. The Labor Department says the unemployment rate rose in 20 states and fell in 15. It was unchanged in another 15 states. That's nearly the same as in November, when the rate rose in 21 states, fell in 15 and was the same in 14. The report is evidence that the job market is barely improving even as the economy grows. Most economists expect hiring to pick up this year, although the unemployment rate will likely remain high. Employers in most states didn't add any net new jobs last month. The number of jobs on employer payrolls fell in 35 states in December, the department said. Only 15 states reported gains. Layoffs have slowed dramatically in the past year, but hiring has yet to pick up.

Washington's unemployment rate was at 9.3 percent in December, continuing a trend of slow growth since the summer. The 9.3 percent rate is just one-tenth of a percentage point higher than the November jobless rate. The jobless rate also stood at 9.2 percent a year ago. State officials also say Washington's economy added about 8,000 jobs during 2010. That balances stronger private-sector job growth against losses in government jobs.

The jobless rate in Snohomish County fell significantly in December, mostly thanks to a big hiring boost at the Boeing Co., the state Employment Security Department reported Wednesday. The county's aerospace industry added 900 workers in December, helping cut unemployment from a revised 10.1 percent in November to 9.8 percent in December. The county saw its labor force fall in December, from 380,210 workers to 379,410.

Boeing Co.

Boeing sales rebounded in 2010 from a low the previous year, a turnaround that ensures the jet builder will keep adding jobs in the Puget Sound region. Boeing announced that last year it sold a net total 530 jets. That's way down from the 2007 all-time high of 1,413 orders. But in this economy, it's a solid recovery from last year's net order total of 142 jets.

Though the broad U.S economy has shown scant signs of sparking to life after a deep recession, U.S. carriers United and American both placed big orders with Boeing in 2010. South American, Asian and Middle Eastern orders boosted 2010 jet sales even more. The sales uplift came despite Boeing's struggle to get its new 787 Dreamliner and 747-8 jumbo-jet programs back on schedule. Customers canceled orders for more than 40 Dreamliners during the year. That leaves the new jumbo-jet program with just 108 orders, still struggling for viability. Some other sales placed in the giddy years before the recession also melted away, with airlines canceling orders for 30 large 777s and more than 20 single-aisle 737s. Yet new sales of 625 jets more than made up for the 95 cancellations.

The vast majority of the orders were for the Renton-built 737 single-aisle jets and the Everett-built 777 wide-body jets. Deliveries of Boeing jets from the Puget Sound region's assembly plants were only slightly down in 2010 from a year earlier, again largely due to the prolific 737 and 777 programs. Not only did no 787s get delivered last year, but no 747s were delivered either. There was only a trickle of 767s: one jet per month. The future of the 767 rests on the outcome of the Air Force tanker competition, expected later this month.

Home Sales

Nationally, buyers purchased the fewest number of new homes last year on records going back 47 years. Sales for all of 2010 totaled 321,000, a drop of 14.4 percent from the 375,000 homes sold in 2009, the Commerce Department said Wednesday. It was the fifth consecutive year that sales have declined after hitting record highs for the five previous years when the housing market was booming. The year ended on a stronger note. Buyers purchased new homes at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 329,000 units in December, a 17.5 percent increase from the November pace. Still, economists say it could be years before sales rise to a healthy rate of 600,000 units a year.

Median prices for homes in Snohomish County have declined to levels we haven't seen here since late 2004, but they remain higher than anywhere else in Washington state except for San Juan and King counties. The county's median home price was $275,000 in 2010, according to the annual report from the Northwest Multiple Listing Service. That's down 8.32 percent from 2009. Last year's median prices were about halfway between the 2004 and 2005 medians, which were $250,000 and $297,000 respectively. But they were still the third highest in the state.

The housing market nationally and regionally will not begin to improve significantly until the backlog of homes in the foreclosure pipeline is significantly reduced. This may take five or more years to get back to a normal level of real estate activity.

County Sales

Table 5 (County Sales by SIC Code) on page 10 reports overall retail and wholesale sales within the County. No single element of retail activity dominates the year-over-year comparison. As was the case for the second quarter of 2010, overall sales exceed those of the prior year by a low single digit amount. It is important to note that we are seeing stability for the first time in several years. Based upon news reports, we can anticipate that the fourth quarter will show continued stability and possible higher levels of growth.
