

Snohomish County Groundwater Management

Where Does Groundwater Come From?

With few exceptions, groundwater in Snohomish County originates as rainwater that seeps or percolates down through the soil into the ground. When sufficient water has percolated into the soil and soil pores are completely full, water is able to flow under the force of gravity and it becomes groundwater or an aquifer.

